Part I – Our Office

Since opening the Wikimedia DC office on K Street this past July, I have served as its de-facto office manager. The office has served us well in our day-to-day business, having been used as a workplace, as a place to store our equipment, and very frequently as a quiet meeting place for our outside contractors and guests interested in the work of Wikimedia DC, including a representative from Wikimedia Ghana and the organizing team of Wikimania 2013. Our office is a very valuable investment for Wikimedia DC, and we should continue having one beyond the end of our sublease on September 30.
In selecting our next office, we need to consider exactly how much office space we need, especially since we have very limited funds which we can use to pay for it. This fall I will no longer be able to volunteer at the office every day, leaving only a part-time intern. My opinion is that, at the very least, we need 1) a place to store our equipment 2) regular access to a conference room and 3) some kind of work area to occasionally do work. I have been conducting a search for our next office as part of our draft application for Wiki Loves Monuments programming.

Part II – Planning for 2013

Per the Movement Accountability Policy, we are required to adopt an annual plan. I have started a draft page here: <http://wikimediadc.org/wiki/Internal:Annual_plan_drafts/2013>. It may help facilitate planning to think of the annual plan as four quarterly plans, with goals for the year defining our general goals as an organization. In addition to leaving your suggestions on the page, I recommend we begin planning at this upcoming Board meeting.

7. Speaking on behalf of the Fundraising Committee, Mr. Hare reported that the committee was preparing two grant applications to the Wikimedia Foundation.

8. Mr. Lokshin submitted a written report on behalf of the Governance Committee, which was entered into the Minutes:

    The Governance Committee has prepared drafts of a revised Membership Policy and a new Board Meeting Policy; these drafts have been submitted to the Board for review. In addition, the committee has finished compiling a final draft of the amended and restated Bylaws based on the comments received from DLA Piper and others; this draft has also been submitted to the Board for review.

    Over the next month, the committee plans to prepare drafts of a revised Election Policy, a revised Privacy Policy, a new Donor Privacy Policy, a new Friendly Space Policy, and a new Fiscal Control Policy.

    Katie Filbert and Kat Walsh have tendered their resignations from the committee. In addition, attempts to contact Kevin Chen in regard to his continued interest in serving on the committee have been unsuccessful.

9. Ms. Filbert submitted a written report on behalf of the Technical Committee, which was entered into the Minutes:

    Wiki Loves Monuments tech support

    The technical committee is supporting Wiki Loves Monuments in the United States, which starts on September 1.

1. We are hosting the website, which will be linked to from a central notice banner (geolocated for the US) on Wikipedia and other Wikimedia projects. Last year, the wikilovesmonuments.eu site got 7 million hits in September. To handle traffic, we are installing caching tools and implementing some optimizations for our wikilovesmonuments.us website. If it is needed, we would like authorization to increase our Linode hosting plan. The backup plan is to direct the banner to a landing page on Wikimedia Commons.

2. We are developing a tool for Wikimedia Commons to facilitate the voting process for the competition. Phase 1 is community voting to narrow to a list of 500 finalist submissions. Phase 2 is a jury process, and the jury has been selected.

3. We are grateful for the help so far with the competition as a whole, including from Matthew Roth, Pete Ekman, Richard Knipel and Sarah Stierch, who have provided invaluable leadership. For the website, Ryan Kaldari, Jeremy Baron, Chad Horohoe and Greg Varnum are helping (or interested in helping) with technical aspects, which is also invaluable and much appreciated.

4. We can still use more help with the wikilovesmonument.us site, including improving the content and if anyone wants to help with the technical stuff, that would also be very much welcome.

5. Aside from the website, we are working on having an upload button in the WP:NRHP (National Register of Historic Places) lists on Wikipedia, helping setup our Central Notice banner, etc.

Wiki Loves Monuments needs

1. In the next week or so, we will need to have one or more of the other technical team members take over leadership for the website, as Katie will be unavailable and offline at the end of August and early September.

2. We need other people in Wikimedia DC to take leadership with handling prizes and swag for the various local events, and for the contest finalists.

3. We also need Wikimedia DC people to take leadership with local events, including upload parties in DC, but also supporting events in Baltimore and elsewhere. If someone in the chapter is interested, we also have a contact in West Virginia who is interested in Wiki Loves Monuments.
4. Come September 1 when the banner is up, we expect additional people to emerge and want to be involved, within our own region and beyond. We need people in the chapter to be ready to help out with that.

5. We need our grant to be submitted very soon as possible. If we are not ready to decide about office space and an intern, we may want to separate the Wiki Loves Monuments part into a grant application to submit now, and another one when it is ready.

Other items

1. If nobody has any objections, we would like to disable the Wikimania scholarships and registration sites. We will keep the software and data in place for a bit longer, in case we need it, but it improves data security if make it non-web accessible now.

10. Mr. Hare submitted a written report regarding the organization of the Wikimania 2012 conference, which was entered into the Minutes:

   We are still waiting for the final report from our conference planners. In the meantime, over the past month we have sent thank-you notes to important Wikimania collaborators and paid many of our bills. Additionally, we have received a hard drive with several of the Wikimania videos, which will be uploaded soon.

11. Ms. Marrs reported that she was working to organize a number of events throughout September and October. She further reported that she would be leaving her position with the Corporation on September 29.

12. Mr. Bashour reported that the Corporation had received a letter from Mr. Ferriero, the Archivist of the United States, and said letter was entered into the Minutes.

   [document attached]

13. Mr. Hare reported that the Corporation had received a postcard from Mr. Gelauff, of the Wikimedia Affiliations Committee. He further reported that the Corporation had received a letter from Mr. Gaunce, of the Internal Revenue Service, in response to the Corporation's application for tax-exempt status as a charitable organization under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, and said letter was entered into the Minutes.
