The meeting was called to order by Mr. Bashour at 3:13 PM.

1. A motion by Mr. Bashour to approve the Minutes of the May 5 meeting of the Board of Directors in the form previously distributed was seconded and passed without dissent.

2. Mr. Bashour submitted a written report, which was entered into the Minutes:

   I’d like to welcome Lisa Marrs as our intern for Outreach & Program Coordination. Lisa is intelligent and enthusiastic, and will provide invaluable support in the next few critical months.

   I’m planning a WikiData Roundtable event with Sunlight labs to take place in June. Right now, the most likely date is Thursday, June 21 sometime between 5:00 and 7:30 pm. The goal of this event is to discuss WikiData with the NGO and open data community in dc in order to understand what WikiData is and is not as it develops and to hopefully make relevant suggestions and recommendations to the WikiData development team through a white paper to deliver to them during Wikimania 2012.

   We’re finalizing details for our next Embassy Outreach Event, which will be at the Austrian Embassy on July 6 at 7:30 pm. The event is a pop/jazz concert with Austrian Violinist Barbara Helfgott and Austrian Pianist Michael Kahr, followed by a reception prepared by an Austrian chef. We’re hoping to be able to record the performance to post on Commons and to interview the musicians about Austrian music and write a post about them on our blog, which can hopefully be used as a source to improve relevant articles on Wikipedia.

Tom Risen is assisting in putting together another EOI event, focused on Women & Technology in Developing Countries, and we’re hoping to have this event at the Kenyan or Tanzanian embassy. At this event, we’re hoping to address what development organizations are doing on the ground right now to bring access to technology to women in developing countries, how that technology has affected these women, the obstacles (cultural, technological, financial) we facing now in trying to expand educational reach in those countries, and the ways that we can start to address those obstacles.

I’m starting to put together a grant application to the Foundation to fund Wiki Loves Monuments and related events in the fall, including a national kick off gala in early September, which I’m hoping to hold at the National Building Museum if they can waive their venue fees, or otherwise I’d like to hold it at the Historical Society of Washington, D.C.’s Carnegie Library building. I’d like to do a few unique events for Wiki Loves Monuments, outside from the usual edit-a-thons, and ideas are welcomed to be incorporated into the grant application.

3. Mr. Lokshin submitted a written report, which was entered into the Minutes:

No new membership applications have been received since the last meeting of the Board; the total number of members remains at 54.

The Corporation has executed two new agreements: a Registration Management Services Agreement with Potomac Management Resources, and a Wikimedia Foundation Grants Program Grant Agreement with the Wikimedia Foundation. Both agreements will be entered into the Minutes.

10. A motion by Mr. Hare to appoint Mr. Lokshin as the Corporation's representative to the Council of the Wikimedia Chapters Association was seconded and passed without dissent.

11. Mr. Hare submitted a written report on behalf of the Wikimania 2012 conference planning team, and said report was entered into the Minutes:

   I have been working with Julie Perlmutter on securing audio-visual, wireless Internet, and catering contracts while also working to finalize our venue reservation at George Washington University. Members of the Program Committee met with Julie and others on the Wikimania organizing team to ensure that the logistical efforts accurately reflect the program.

   Currently, the printed catalog which will be distributed to the conference attendees is being compiled. A first draft will be completed shortly.

   In consideration of the need for low-cost housing for many attendees, and in light of the overbooked reservation at Hostelling International, the organizing team discussed an idea for a "matchmaking service" where attendees would pay a reduced room rate in exchange for being paired with a random roommate. To this end, twenty hotel rooms at the State Plaza Hotel were booked on Wikimedia DC's behalf. The service will be launched soon.

   Wikimedia DC received a price quote for video services, with all production, recording, editing, and uploading services provided for approximately $160,000. Given that other price quotes will be in this general area, due to the high volume of concurrent sessions at Wikimania, ideas for reducing reliance on professional videography services were considered, including volunteer-operated video recorders.

   I proposed VIP policy concerning the subsidy of travel expenses to individuals important to the conduct of the conference and emailed it to Katie, Nicholas, and Tiffany. The proposed policy is as follows:
1) A "VIP" is defined as any person deemed by the Wikimania 2012 team to (a) are uniquely qualified in a certain area or regard to the extent that it is worth more to cover their travel expenses than to hire a local professional, (b) have an agreement with Wikimedia DC to provide a service to the conference's organization or program, (c) have sought financial subsidies through a scholarship process (except for certain invited speakers), and (d) have considerable financial need to attend Wikimania in order to perform previously agreed-upon tasks.

2) VIPs shall cover as many expenses on their own and through other financial subsidies as possible. All other sources of other financial subsidies must be disclosed.

3) When paying for transportation, the preference is for the VIP to pay for his or her own flight and then seek reimbursement.

4) Where possible, VIPs shall have a written agreement with Wikimedia DC in order to receive financial subsidies as a VIP.

Planned invited VIPs include the keynote speaker Mary Gardiner, a sponsor liaison, a U.S.-based reporter for the Wikipedia Signpost, and presenters for Wikimania 2013 in Hong Kong. The planned budget for VIPs is $14,500.00.

* Ms. Filbert joined the meeting *
